MOTION OF CAMBRIDGE ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY FOR A PROTECTIVE ORDER

I. INTRODUCTION

On November 2, 2001, Cambridge Electric Light Company ("Cambridge" or the "Company") filed with the Department of Telecommunications and Energy (the "Department") a Petition for Approval of a 2001 Amendatory Agreement between Cambridge and the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corporation ("Vermont Yankee"), docketed by the Department as D.T.E. 01-94 (the "Petition"). The Petition seeks Department approval of a 2001 Amendatory Agreement between Cambridge and Vermont Yankee relating to power contracts which include amendments to the existing power contract obligations between Cambridge and Vermont Yankee. The 2001 Amendatory Agreement is associated with the proposed sale by Vermont Yankee of its nuclear power station (the "Station") to Entergy Nuclear Vermont LLC and Entergy Corporation (together, "Entergy").

On January 23, 2002, the Department Staff submitted information requests to Cambridge regarding, inter alia, the economic analysis pertaining to the sale of the Station. For the reasons set forth below, Cambridge requests that the Department issue a protective order to limit disclosure of the requested proprietary, confidential and highly sensitive competitive information to the Attorney General and the Department only.¹

II. LEGAL STANDARD

Confidential information may be protected from public disclosure in accordance with G.L. c. 25, § 5D, which states in part that:

The [D]epartment may protect from public disclosure, trade secrets, confidential, competitively sensitive or other proprietary information provided in the course of proceedings conducted pursuant to this chapter. There shall be a presumption that the information for which such protection is sought is public information and the burden shall be on the proponent of such protection to prove the need for such protection. Where the need has been found to exist, the [D]epartment shall protect only so much of the information as is necessary to meet such need.

In interpreting the statute, the Department has held that:

... [T]he burden on the company is to establish the need for protection of the information cited by the company. In determining the existence and extent of such need, the Department must consider the presumption in favor of disclosure and the specific reasons why disclosure of the disputed information benefits the public interest.

The Berkshire Gas Company et al., D.P.U. 93-187/188/189/190, at 16 (1994) as cited in Hearing Officers Ruling On the Motion of Boston Gas Company for Confidentiality, D.P.U. 96-50, at 4 (1996).

In practice, the Department has often exercised its authority to protect sensitive market information. For example, the Department has determined specifically that competitively sensitive information, such as price terms, is subject to protective status:

The Department will continue to accord protective status when the proponent carries its burden of proof by indicating the manner in which the price term is competitively sensitive. Proponents generally will face a more difficult task of overcoming the statutory presumption against the disclosure of other terms, such as the identity of the customer.

Standard of Review for Electric Contracts, D.P.U. 96-39, at 2, Letter Order (August 30, 1996). See also Colonial Gas Company, D.P.U. 96-18, at 4 (1996) (the Department determined that price terms were protected in gas supply contracts and allowed Colonial Gas Company's request to protect pricing information including all "reservation fees or charges, demand charges, commodity charges and other pricing information").

Moreover, the Department has recognized that competitively sensitive terms in a competitive market should be protected and that such protection is desirable as a matter of public policy:

The Department recognizes that the replacement gas purchases . . . are being made in a substantially competitive market with a wide field of potential suppliers. This competitive market should allow LDC's to obtain lower gas prices for the benefit of their ratepayers. Clearly the Department should ensure that its review process does not undermine the LDC's efforts to negotiate low cost flexible supply contracts for their systems. The Department also recognizes that a policy of affording contract confidentiality may add value to contracts and provide benefits to ultimate consumers of gas, the LDC's ratepayers, and therefore may be desirable for policy reasons.

The Berkshire Gas Company et al., D.P.U 93-187/188/189/190, at 20 (1994).

III. THE MATERIAL AT ISSUE IS PROPRIETARY, CONFIDENTIAL AND SENSITIVE AND WARRANTS PROTECTION FROM DISCLOSURE

Cambridge is requesting confidential treatment of specific information relating to the market price forecast contained in the study prepared by Henwood Energy Services, Inc. (the "Henwood Study"), which was used as a sensitivity comparison to the Company's economic analysis contained in its November 2nd filing. Cambridge intends to use the Henwood Study for evaluating potential restructuring or buy-outs of power purchase agreements. Because of this strategic use of the Henwood Study, Cambridge considers the information to be proprietary, confidential and highly competitively sensitive. Overall, Cambridge is seeking protection for those responses to information requests that contain the market price contained in the Henwood Study, i.e., Attachment DTE-CEL-1-1 and Attachment DTE-CEL-1-4. The disclosure of this sensitive information, as contained in the response to Department's information requests, would undermine the Company's ability to maximize mitigation efforts, which inures to the benefit of Cambridge's customers. Cambridge's negotiating position in regard to other power purchase agreements would be substantially harmed if Cambridge's market price assumptions and other highly sensitive information were revealed.

IV. CONCLUSION

Cambridge respectfully requests leave to respond, under seal, to the Department's information requests DTE-CEL-1-1 and DTE-CEL-1-4 and to provide a copy of those responses to the Attorney General pursuant to the Non-Disclosure Agreement (see Attachment A, appended). This approach will allow the Department and the Attorney General to review the Company's analysis of the transaction auction process and provide a mechanism to ensure that proprietary, confidential and sensitive market price forecast information will remain confidential.

WHEREFORE, for the reasons set forth herein, Cambridge respectfully requests that the Department allow Cambridge's Motion for a Protective Order.

Respectfully submitted, these negotiations produce agreement, the parties will so notify the Department.

b. If the parties fail to reach agreement with respect to the disclosure, or if the Company maintains that the information should continue to be classified as "PROTECTED MATERIALS," the parties shall request that the Hearing Officer review the documents in camera and determine whether they should be protected from disclosure. All parties reserve the right to appeal to the Commission, in accordance with applicable law and regulations, any decision rendered by the Hearing Officer.
